Umalas holds a significant 10.5% share of the leasehold market, making it one of the most active areas. Prices have shown impressive growth of 6.4% over the past year, outpacing most markets, while listing prices have only edged up 1.4%, suggesting some buyer negotiation power remains.

Despite its strength, clearance rates sit at 22%, slightly below the market median of 24%, yet 260 sales place it among the top performing neighbourhoods by volume. On the rental side, Umalas outperforms expectations with 60% occupancy, sitting well above the market average of 55%, reinforcing its appeal as an investment location.

DATA FOR LEASEHOLD VILLAS ONLY

Umalas has a clear preference for spacious living, with 75% of available properties between 2- and 4- bedrooms, led by 3-bedroom villas at 30%. Sales mirror this trend, with 3- and 4-bedroom properties making up 55% of transactions. However, 1-bedroom properties also perform well, achieving a strong 28% clearance rate, a sign that demand exists across different price points.

The tilt toward larger homes is evident in overall property sizes, with the median property sitting 22% above the market average. This suggests Umalas is attracting buyers looking for more expansive villas, whether for personal use or high-end rentals, aligning with its strong sales volume and rental performance.
