MARKET BREAK DOWN

Kerobokan's 2025 story is one of quiet progress in a market that has historically been easy to overlook. It is the only location in this report set to record genuine median price growth, rising to $241k from $230k in 2024, while carrying the highest discount rate of all five markets at -17% to -21% throughout the year. That combination is analytically interesting: transaction prices are rising even as buyers negotiate hard, suggesting sellers are gradually accepting realistic valuations and the market is finding its floor.

Supply remains contained, with leasehold at 86%, villas at 98.7%, and off-plan declining to 14.1% from 19% in 2024. Distribution sits across 2- to 4-bedroom segments, consistent with prior years. Kerobokan is not competing with Canggu or Berawa on product depth or price ceiling. Its proposition is straightforward: accessible entry pricing, proximity to stronger markets, and a rental yield starting point that is among the most attractive in the North Badung corridor.

PROPERTY SIZE DISTRIBUTION

DATA FOR LEASEHOLD VILLAS ONLY

Property sizes in Kerobokan have compressed modestly across several bedroom types compared to 2024. Median sizes run from 68 sqm for 1-beds to 278 sqm for 4-beds, with the 6-bedroom category holding a large 700 sqm median, likely older large-format stock rather than new development. Lease terms are strongly concentrated at 30 years. Annual pricing is the lowest of all five locations: 2-beds around $8k-$10k, 3- and 4-bedroom stock at $15k-$20k, and larger configurations toward $30k-$40k. Set against Kerobokan’s lower purchase prices, these figures produce some of the more attractive gross yield entry points in the corridor.

On the rental side, average occupancy has improved to 61% in 2025 from 59.1% in 2024, sitting above the Bali market average of 54%. Daily rates have softened across most bedroom types, with 4-beds declining from $409 to $343, though the 5-bedroom segment held steady. The occupancy improvement partially offsets rate softening, but investors should model both variables together when assessing net yield.
