MARKET BREAK DOWN

Uluwatu maintains a strong foothold in the leasehold market, accounting for 8% of total supply. Prices have been remarkably stable, with both listing and sold prices moving less than half a percent over the past year, settling in line with the market median.

Where Uluwatu stands out is its clearance rate of 32%, significantly outperforming the market median of 24%. With 252 sales, this suggests a market with strong buyer engagement and liquidity. However, rental performance tells a different story, 51% occupancy, well below the market average of 55%. Despite healthy sales activity, Uluwatu's rental market appears to be struggling to match the demand seen in other areas.

PROPERTY SIZE DISTRIBUTION

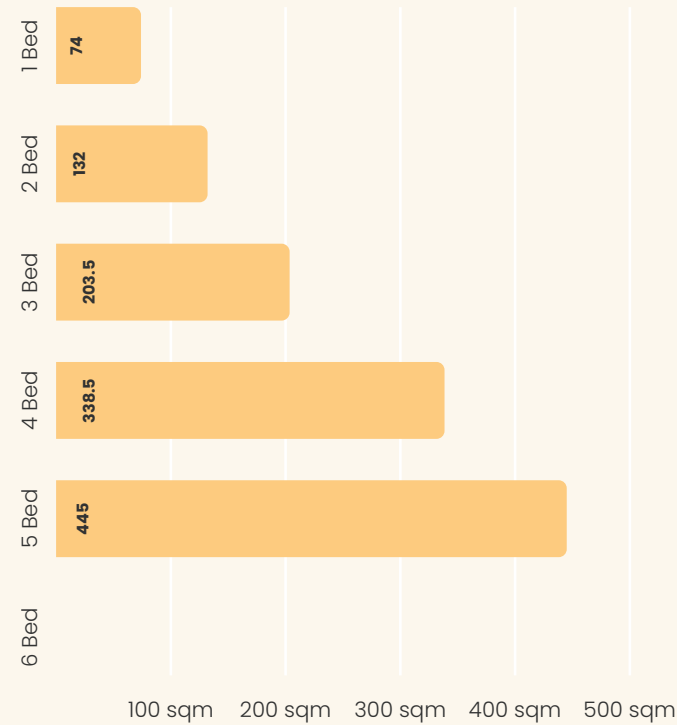

DATA FOR LEASEHOLD VILLAS ONLY

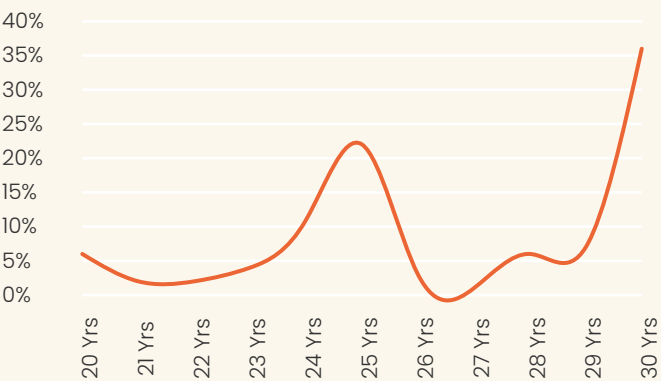

Uluwatu’s property supply is highly concentrated in 1- to 3-bedroom properties, making up 88% of the market, with 3-bedroom properties leading at 38%. However, when it comes to actual sales, buyers favour smaller spaces, with 65% of transactions in the 1- and 2-bedroom category. 1-bedroom properties stand out in particular, boasting a clearance rate of 39%, a sign of strong demand for compact, lower-priced options.

One defining trait of the Uluwatu market is property size—on average, homes here are 23% smaller than the broader market benchmark. This could point to a growing appetite for more efficient, lower maintenance properties, or simply a reflection of the area’s development trends. Either way, Uluwatu’s real estate landscape is one where smaller homes move fast, even if rental returns have yet to catch up.
